

EFFECTIVE LEADERSHIP IN A MALAYSIAN CULTURAL CONTEXT

Organizations today place great emphasis on identifying and cultivating individuals with good leadership capabilities. Effective leaders help to ensure that your organization's objectives and goals are met, while at the same time ensuring teams remain cohesive in their collaboration and communication with one another. For leadership teams made up of individuals from diverse backgrounds and experiences, collaboration and teamwork can be a challenge as differences in culture, management styles and personalities often lead to conflict if they are not managed properly. How can you learn to understand and respect each other's differences in personality and management styles? How can you build trust in relationships and foster a collaborative spirit? And how can you commit to a common goal and support each another in achieving this goal?

Through our 'Effective Leadership in a Malaysian Cultural Context' Public Program, you will learn to identify what an effective leader looks like, especially in a Malaysian business setting. You will understand how to achieve greatness as a team and as a leader by setting achievable goals for the organization. You will become aware of your own cultural values and how it affects your approach to communication, dealing with uncertainties and decision making. Lastly, you will also be helped to understand how to act, communicate and build strong relationships with those you lead and network with each day.

By the end of the two-day program, you will not only learn how to get the most out of the team you lead, but also how you can motivate your team to GIVE you their best.
