

WELCOME TO MALAYSIA PACKAGE

Specifically designed for international school teachers and principals

Recruiting educators who can adapt well to their new international assignment can be one of the biggest challenges Malaysian international schools face. School administrators often spend a great deal of time and care in the selection process. Additionally, administrators and parents want to see continuity in the classroom. Even with all the attention and care given to selecting the right candidate, there is still the question of whether this particular individual will be able to adapt.

- Will they and perhaps their family be able to make Malaysia their new home?
- Will they be able to adapt to the local culture and communication style?
- Will they work well with both local and international staff?
